Several civil suits were begun in Justice C. W. Garrison's court this week. In two of them, the Hodges-Cook Mercantile company appears as plaintiff. One of the defendants is A. L. Kimball, a carpenter, formerly of this city who is alleged to have left the country without making arrangements to pay a grocery bill amounting to $102. In the second action, R. S. Biggs, a relative of Kimball's, is sued to recover judgment for something like $52. Biggs was also allowed to run an account at the store and he too, went away without fixing matters with the firm. Kimball and Biggs were in town in the early part of the week, when Biggs made matters right as far as his case was concerned. Wednesday, Kimball was made defendant in another attachment suit to recover claims aggregating about $200.

EQUITY INVOLVED

Suit to Determine Who Is Entitled to Contract Money.

A suit was filed in Justice Garrison's court this week against J. A. Kirby and E. B. Fredericks, the plaintiff in the action being Paul Schultz. It appears that Fredericks and Schultz were given a contract by Kirby to do some work on the General Grant lode mining claim consolidated. Fredericks left the district, but Schultz carried out the contract with Kirby. After the work was done Fredericks made a demand for one-half of the money; whereas, Schultz having performed the work without any assistance from his partner, contended that Fredericks was entitled to no compensation. Kirby paid Schultz for his share, but withheld the balance until such time that the court decided whether Fredericks has any equity in the contract, which is the purpose of the suit.

Will Handle Utah Con. Ore.

With the expiration of the contract between the Utah Con. M. Co., and the A. S. & R. next April, the net earnings of the mining company should show an increase over the results of the company's operations ending Dec. 31, 1908. The International Smelting Co., will commence next April and the arrangement calls for a smelting charge at least 67 cents cheaper than that made by the American, and in addition the cost of transporting the ores will be materially lessened through the more favorable location of the new smelter. The company is said to hold a large portion of the stock of the new smelter and this will materially increase the income.—Tooele Times.
